Fat Canary

410 West Duke of Gloucester Street
Williamsburg, Virginia
(757) 229-3333

Gourmet American

Back in the day when sailing ships traveled from the Old World to the New, they stopped in the Canary Islands off the northwestern African coast for supplies. One important provision brought aboard was wine – referred to as “Canary”. And this fine restaurant is aptly named after a reference in the Colonial era playwright John Lyly’s poem “Oh for a bowl of fat canary, rich Palermo, sparkling sherry ...” Located in the heart of Colonial Williamsburg, Fat Canary is a wonderful restaurant that serves tasty American cuisine in a comfortable setting. Since its opening six years ago, it has received the AAA Four Diamond award every year.

Le Yaca

1915 Pocahontas Trail
Williamsburg, Virginia
(757) 220-3616

French Cuisine

This is one of the top restaurant destinations in the State of Virginia. In fact, Le Yaca has been serving authentic French cuisine in Williamsburg for over 25 years. Le Yaca began in a tiny village in the French Alps. It then moved to St. Tropez and later opened in Williamsburg. Le Yaca has consistently been written up in magazines and newspapers and cited for its comfortable French ambience and outstanding food and wine selection. Chef Daniel - also the restaurant's owner - trained in prestigious French restaurants and with the well known Chef and restaurateur Alain Ducasse.
